Commonwealth Strategic Partners Co-founder Keith Pemrick Invited to Seton Hall University to Share Career Advice

WASHINGTON, D.C. – On March 1, Keith Pemrick, Co-founder and Managing Partner of Commonwealth Strategic Partners (CSP), spoke with graduate students of the National Security Research Fellowship research team at Seton Hall University’s School of Diplomacy and International Relations. Pemrick met with the students to offer career advice and explore his work as a lobbyist and an adjunct professor at American University.

Pemrick detailed how lobbying works, discussed CSP’s commitment to its clients’ objectives, and answered students’ questions on career paths. Pemrick drew on his extensive experience with CSP and his previous time on the Hill as Legislative Director for former Congressman Tim Holden (D-PA) to provide the students with valuable insight and career advice.

“I was honored to be invited to speak with the students at the National Security Research Fellowship,” Pemrick said. “They represent some of the best and brightest of the next generation, and I look forward to watching them grow into careers of their own.”
